

THE PRESS.
MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 17, 1872.
Republican District Convention.

The Representatives of the several cities and towns in the FIRST DISTRICT of Maine are invited to send delegates to a District Convention to be held at
LANCASTER HALL, PORTLAND,
Wednesday, June 26th, 1872,
AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Forty-third Congress and a candidate for Elector for President and Vice-President.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city and town will be entitled to send one delegate, and each township one delegate. The vote cast for Sidney Perham at the gubernatorial election of 1870. A majority fraction of forty votes will be entitled to an additional delegate.

Representatives of the several cities and towns are requested to forward the names of their delegates as soon as chosen, to the Chairman of the District Committee.

The appointment of delegates to the several cities and towns in the District is as follows:

The London Saturday Review has made the astonishing discovery that Horace Greeley was "elected at Cincinnati by the votes of the Protestant members of the body." It commends us to an English newspaper.

Edwin Forrest's agent lost $3,000 of his master's money the other day, and he says that Mr. Forrest never played so well in his life as directly after he learned the melancholy fact. The performance was private and involuntary, and the agent supported Mr. Forrest as well as he could; but he wouldn't do it again for a century's salary. He is not ambitious for theatrical honors, but what he wants is comfort, to say nothing of his bones.

A medical authority in London affirms that eight men to three women are afflicted with enlargement of the heart, and the reason is, that the men have more work and more anxiety to undergo. It has been supposed heretofore that women have nearly a monopoly of the heart difficulty, but the London authority gives statistics to show that the estimate is correct.

A drunken Provençal paper speaks of two ve-"hie"-ular accidents in that city.

We are told now that "Chignons fall en cascade down the back and ripple under waves of lace, which tumble in chaotic confusion from the top of the new, das-crown-

A very "fishy" story comes from California to the effect that an artisan well at Campton, 150 feet deep, ejects live fish resembling speckled trout, from half an inch to two inches long. The same phenomenon appears at an artisan well on a rancho near by, seeming to indicate the existence of a subterranean lake.

Oliver Logan is at her home in New York, having recently concluded a successful lecture tour through the South, and she will gush and warble no more until next winter. Until a day or so ago the dear girl had not seen her home since the hour of her marriage, some months since, when she rushed from the altar to the service of her country, taking neither time nor thought for the honeymoon.

The College Courier "admires luck. ♡ A singular taste for undergraduates. Very few candidates for a degree ever admire luck at all.

When one is always striving to please self, there is often a dearth of ways and m. ns. But let an effort be made to please others,

The washerwomen of Leamington, England, or "ladies of the wash-tub," as they are pleased to call themselves, have held open-air meeting and resolved not to work for less than a shilling and a half per day, board and beer included.

An Iowa man refused to see his wife die, because he was afraid she would pledge him not to remarry.

Moses and Aaron Wilcox were born the same day, married sisters, were partners in business at Twinburg, O., died on the same day, and are buried in one grave; which may be called a singular concatenation of coincidental circumstances.

It has been found that in nearly every civilized country the tree that bears most fruit for market is the axle-tree.

Don't chase your hat through the streets when you blow off. It is undignified. Stand still, and some somebody else will run and get it for you.

A Wisconsin girl was so anxious to know who was making the music under her window when she awoke, that she fell out of the window, and so scared her serenader that he fled and left her to her fate.

The Boston Jubilee is to be conducted on strictly temperance principles, no wines nor liquors being allowed with the single exception of flag beer, which is to be given to foreign dignitaries exclusively. Native trumpet players are naturally indignant at being deprived of their horns.
